A member's perspective on yoga at the club

The sun just began to raise, casting a soft, golden hue over the sprawling lawns of our club. Amidst the chirping of early morning birds and the gentle rustling of leaves, a group of dedicated members gathered at the Pavilion, unrolling their Yoga mats with a sense of anticipation and tranquility.

"Yoga at the club has become an integral part of my routine," member shared with a smile. "It is not first about the physical exercise; it is a holistic approach to wellness that encompasses mind, body and spirit."

SIRI MADDULA

D/O M. UJVAL, U-015

My name is Siri Maddula. I am 9 years old and I study in Rygaards school in class 4Y. I live in Copenhagen, which is the capital city of Denmark. During my school summer holidays I went to Stockholm in Sweden. In Stockholm, we went to the Vasa museum, I loved the museum so much that when I came back to Denmark I researched more about the ship on google to understand some interesting facts about the ship and wrote about this mighty battleship as if me and my friend had visited the museum together. Hope you will enjoy the story. (This is the 1st story that I have written but I hope this is just the beginning).

A TOUR AROUND THE MIGHTY VASA

INTRODUCTION

Today I am going to take you on a exiting tour about the wonderful VASA and my friend Whitney is going to come with us. When I entered museum the first words that describe the battle ship were "It is so big ". As I roamed around the museum from every corner you could see many things.

MIGHTY VASA

It took Henrick Hybertssons and his team 2 years to build the Vasa "what 2 years" yes Whitney 2 years. He built it in between the years 1626-1628. If you ask how many people in his team were 400 people. The vasa is 69 m long and 52.5m high. It has 64 cannons as it was a war ship. It can hold 145 sailors and 300 soldiers.

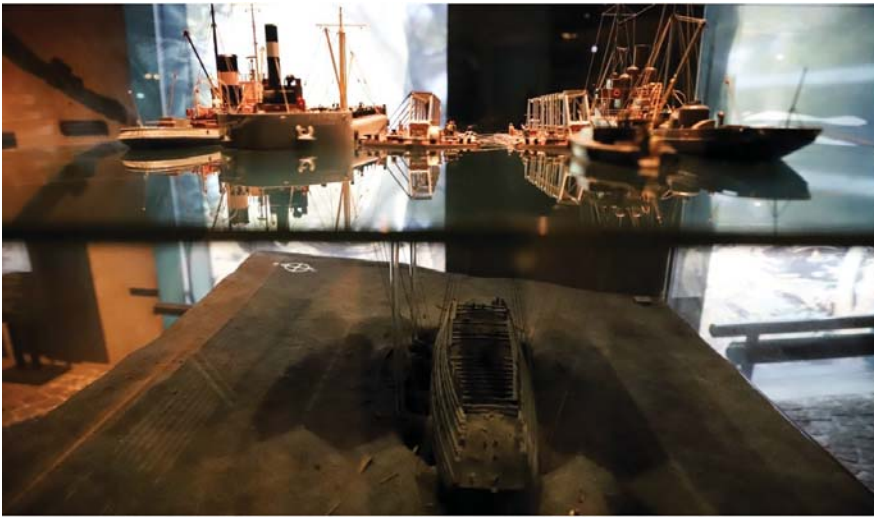

"Oh my god so many people were in that ship" it is a very big ship.

THE SHORT SAIL

Ok we have come to the funny part, the Vasa sailed 1km 300m which was 20 minutes before it sank in the Baltic sea on the 10th of August 1628.

" what only that long before it sank only 20 minutes that is just very funny".

MYSTERIOUS WOOD

In 1956 Anders Franzen found the exact position of the vasa. He was using a sounding device to see the depth of the sea. When he rolled up his sounding device a piece of wood came with it. He thought to himself could this be the long lost Vasa. He arranged a diving team to go and confirm if this was the Vasa. Then when they confirmed that it was the vasa he put together a team that will help pull out the vasa. "that is so cool and interesting "yes I know Whitney.

MIGHTY VASA RESTORED

After 300 years of being underwater the Vasa was finally coming up. Anders Franzen's team started pulling things up. They found various things like clothes accessories they found a gold ring as well cooking vessels they found 17 human skeletons . "300 years of being underwater that is insane" that was Shocking to me when I saw it.

Let me tell you guys a theory:

People thought the reason the humongous vasa sank is because the canons weren't tight enough, but when they took it out of the water they found out that was wrong.

Did you know that only 30 people died out of so many people let me tell you the reason, as you know it wasn't to far away from the shore so most of the people swam to shore but some people were not lucky and they did not know how to swim or weren't aware of the sinking. 98%of the vasa is original. "I would have believed that if that was me" that does seem true Whitney

CONCLUSION

I recommend to go to the vasa museum if you are in Stockholm.

It shows all the things they found in the vasa including rooms that were in the battle ship and how deep the water was when Anders Franzen found the vasa from the top to the bottom. As the vasa was painted at the start it also shows the painted sculptures that were on the vasa , the paint is not there anymore because it has been underwater for 300 years. It took 7 years to take it out of the water and rebuild it in the museum.it is the best museum and it might be the best you have been to.

The River has Moved!

The Bridge is No Longer Useful

If you haven't heard the story of the Choluteca Bridge in Honduras, you are probably not alone. I hadn't heard of the bridge until recently, but after hearing the story, it occurred to me that it's an excellent metaphor for the constantly changing dynamics of markets and business.

The Choluteca Bridge is a suspension bridge located in Choluteca, Honduras. Originally constructed in 1930, the bridge was rebuilt in 1996. The Honduras government, knowing the bridge was likely to face extreme weather conditions, commissioned some of the best architectural minds in the world to build a bridge that could withstand any hurricane. It was state-of-the-art at the time, providing a much-needed access point for the people of Honduras and was built to withstand the high winds and hurricanes that plagued the region.

Sure enough, in 1998, Honduras was hit by Hurricane Mitch, a category 5 storm that devastated the Caribbean. Honduras was wrecked. Roads were wiped out, there was considerable damage to buildings and every other bridge in Honduras was destroyed. However, the Choluteca Bridge stood its ground and survived in near perfect condition. It was an amazing architectural achievement. Or, at least it should have been.

Even though the bridge stood its ground, there was one problem, the storm caused the river to carve a completely new path which no longer ran under the bridge. That's right, the Choluteca Bridge no longer stood over the river, rendering it essentially useless.

It is quite remarkable how quickly things can change. Even knowing that a hurricane would eventually hit Honduras, the designers of the bridge were still unable to anticipate future conditions under which the bridge would operate, regardless of how technologically advanced the bridge was at the time.

This situation demonstrates how even the simplest of assumptions about the state of the world (the location of the river) may prove to be incorrect. The most successful innovators are able to consider how markets and behaviours will change and invalidate those assumptions.

The best entrepreneurs know how to survey the landscape and see when the river has or is about to move right out from beneath an existing bridge. That's how small businesses can compete with and beat established incumbents.

The key theme in this story is change. Hurricane Mitch changed the course of the river, so the reason for the Choluteca Bridge changed."

What does this mean to your career?

We not only learn that nothing is permanent. We learn to have the future The story of this bridge provides a fantastic metaphor to invest with adaptiveness and evolution in mind.
